

Lily Pond

Walking time: 15 minutes

Parking: 5–7 spaces

Ideal for: children, dog walkers, and picnickers

The Lily Pond walk is within the Old Historic District and is a great place for a picnic or to walk a dog. It is just five acres, yet there is no shortage of sights and surprises there. Twists and turns, boardwalks and dead ends make for interesting exploring. Several species of trees—cherry, maple, birch and apple—can be found here. At one point the pond here was larger and fed a brook known as Barzillai's Creek. You can still see the outflow pipe at Children's Beach at low tide. In 1723, a girl named Love Paddock accidentally drained the Lily Pond by digging along its banks with a clamshell. Overnight, the water broke free from the pond's banks, wrecking a mill, tearing up the fences, and swamping several boats, but the townspeople did not learn of this fact until many years later when Ms. Paddock confessed to the deed on her death bed. It is also rumored that the remains of the "camels"—the devices which floated whale ships over the sand bar at the mouth of Nantucket Harbor—are at the pond's bottom.

Directions: From the monument, take Gardner Street to North Liberty Street and look for a parking area and Land Bank sign on your right. Or, from Cliff Road, follow North Liberty, crossing West Chester until you see the same parking area on your left.

Enjoying Nantucket Safely

The Nantucket Land Bank accepts no liability due to injury resulting from use of this map or its properties. In other words, you use these trails and recreational areas at your own risk. Follow these tips in order to ensure your use of Land Bank properties is safe and enjoyable:

Dress Appropriately

On trails, wear hiking shoes or boots. In the summer, employ light clothing that provides protection from the sun. In the winter, multiple layers that wick moisture will keep you warm and dry.

Check for Ticks

Nantucket has one of the highest rates of tick-borne diseases in the world. So follow these simple tips. Stay on the trail and avoid tall grasses, shrubs and hanging branches. Wear boots with socks and long pants when possible (tucking your pants into your socks may look geeky, but it will keep ticks from reaching your skin.) Check your family for ticks daily. Be advised that a deer tick nymph is often only the size of a crumb.

Avoid Poison Ivy

Learn to identify and avoid the three shiny leaves and white berries associated with poison ivy. It is one of the most pervasive plants on Nantucket, found near beaches, on wooded trails, near wetlands and moors.

Use Sunscreen

Wear sunscreen and protective clothing to keep from being burned by the powerful summer sun. Some Land Bank trails are rather long and provide little shade, so plan accordingly.

Hydrate Properly

It's often surprising how quickly one can become dehydrated when walking in the moors or on the beach. So bring water with you and drink often.

Hunting Season

Most Land Bank properties are open to hunting in season. Hikers are encouraged to wear bright clothing and keep pets on a leash. The best time to enjoy Land Bank properties during hunting season is on Sundays when hunting is not allowed. Hikers are asked to report any hunting remains that are not properly disposed of to the Land Bank office.

Vehicle Access

Please note that not all of the dirt roads and passable trails are maintained on a regular basis and some may only be traversable with four-wheel drive vehicles. Even with four-wheel drive, you may need to reduce tire pressure on particularly sandy patches. A sticker is required for driving on beaches.

Cell Phones

Bring a cell phone in case you get lost.

Pack In, Pack Out

In most cases, there are no trash receptacles provided at these properties, so please help keep our beaches clean by taking everything that you brought to the beach with you when you leave.

Pet Owners

Keeping our properties and beaches clean by cleaning up after your pet is greatly appreciated.
