

Nantucket Biodiversity Initiative

Science Showcase:

Tree Talk at Reyes Pond

The Reyes Pond property has a dynamic and fascinating history! Today, it serves as an arboretum of sorts, and is home to a diverse collection of tree species from around the world. Staff from the Nantucket Land Bank will guide visitors through a brief history of the property, the role of previous landowners, and the creation of Reyes Pond itself. We will then discuss the cultural significance and identifiable characteristics of some of the property's notable tree specimens.

The walk will take place Wednesday, June 9th at 3pm. Parking is available at 231 Polpis Road. Masks will be required when social distancing is not possible.

Please register here in advance, as space is limited.

Contact Guthrie Diamond for more information: gdiamond@nantucketlandbank.org

